

Monitoring Occupational Diseases and Emerging Risks in a NETWORK

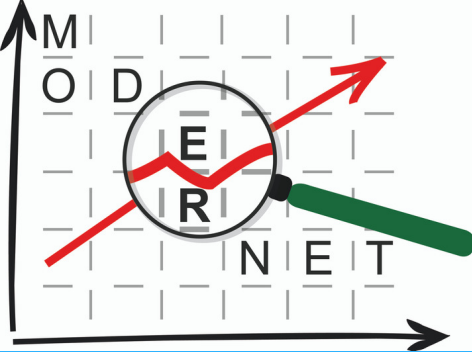

Founded in 2008 as a collaboration between academic centers investigating occupational disease and work-related ill health incidence.

With support from the European Union funded COST (Cooperation in Science and Technology) program, MODERNET grew into a network for development of new techniques for discovering trends in occupational and work-related diseases and tracing new and emerging risks.

The link among the participants' institutions and the capacity of working together was so effective that, even after the end of the EU funding, the network continues to function through the collective work and resources of its members.
